ABOUT ME

I am a third-year Software Engineering student at Bahir Dar University with a 3.6 cumulative GPA. I specialize in front-end web development, building modern, responsive, and high-performance user interfaces using HTML, CSS, JavaScript, React, Next.js, and TypeScript. Alongside my front-end focus, I have solid hands-on experience in back-end development with Node.js, Express, Type ORM, and MySQL, allowing me to contribute to fully integrated, end-to-end web applications. I am proficient in version control using Git and GitHub and have a foundational understanding of Java. I am a motivated learner, detail-oriented developer, and continuously work on improving my skills to deliver clean, scalable, and user-focused solutions.
